ARPAV considered that the Association of Mayors of the coastal area represented an important interlocutor for presenting project initiatives concerning the Adriatic, also with the aim of obtaining guidance information in planning future activities.

The main problems highlighted by the administrators concern coastal erosion caused by storm surges, the effects of intense rainfall and the transport of plastics to the sea by Venetian rivers.

ARPAV described the ongoing activities within the Interreg RESPONSE and Marless projects.

The activities of ARPAV within the RESPONSE Project and the aims of the project were illustrated by Francesco Rech (ARPAV Technician).

ARPAV during the RESPONSE project worked in order to inform the Mayors and the Representatives of the Veneto Coast Contract on the progress of the works.
