INFO DAY
Zadar Underground Bunker C-47
University of Zadar held an Info day, where first results of the project Revival were presented, while keeping the focus on the underground bunker C-47 on Vidikovac, which will be revitalised into new multifunctional space.
DESCRIPTION
Info day was held in Kneževa palača, where UNIZD professors Antonija Mlikota and Rafaela Božić hosted famous journalist, director, lecturer and main director of Motovun film festival - Igor Mirković. After short introduction into project activities, they discussed about the Homeland war and turbulent history of Zadar in the period between the two world wars - in the period when numerous bunkers were built in that area. The conclusion was that bunkers and old movies preserve the trace of time, the trace of history, so they really need to be revitalised and saved from oblivion. In order to vividly show the link between history and film, new short film "Marko" was screened, following the "Zadar Memento" from 1984., so many Zadar residents joined the screening, because they were extras long time ago, or they just wanted to see their parents and grandparents in a movie. ☞ Exactly this level of connection and memory is the goal of the Revival project - through the revitalisation of bunkers to preserve the spirit of a time, which could show parts of forgotten history to its fellow citizens, and bring interesting content in an atypical space to the tourists.
