

City of RIJEKA and other project partners organized a conference

"The Parallel Universe of the Ports of the Adriatic Sea - Places, languages, symbols and regulations" that will be held On November 15, 2022,

- via Webex platform starting at 10 am.

Participation in the conference is free with prior registration at the link REGISTRATION.

The conference is dedicated to ports as places that are permanently changing in the sense of free zones of special rules and laws apply, where material and stable elements coexist with elements that are constantly moving and create intangible value. An example of this is the ways of communication and language among sailors, the so-called "lingua franca" made up of common symbols. In addition, there is also the port heritage, which is often overlooked and which offers many possibilities for interpretation and presentation, primarily to local communities who can build on it and create new ventures and new values, even indirectly, arising from a revived sense of local pride and identity.

The conference will be held in English.
