THE PO DELTA

The Po Delta is a fascinating area between land and water at the mouth of Italy's longest river. This wide plain is a fertile "Biosphere Reserve" protected by Unesco: lagoon, river and sea come together, creating evocative scenarios and offering beautiful emotions to those who admire them. A destination to explore because it allows you to get to know many different facets of a territory: nature, art, culture, history, and the sea.

How to discover the Po Delta

The environmental and natural heritage of a territory must be a resource accessible to everyone. For this reason, some sites of the Po Delta Park of particular importance have been identified to be strengthened in order to favour visits and excursions also for people with accessibility needs and who require specific information to organise their visit with greater tranquility: the Natural Reserve Bosco della Mesola, the Visitor Centre Cubo Magico Bevanella in Ravenna and the Natural Park of Cervia.

We have personally visited all the structures and the proposed routes, in order to guarantee specific information on accessibility, so that they can also be useful to many other people who are not used to finding such timely information and will be surprised to say "good to know!".

Accessible beaches

You can choose from many proposals on the Po Delta coast in Emilia Romagna! The coastline is divided into two large areas, the Comacchio coastline, which extends for 26 km, and the Ravenna coastline, for 35 km. The beaches are golden, the sea slopes slowly, and you can choose to stop at equipped beach areas with many facilities or enjoy the sea in unspoilt areas.

All equipped beach areas have been improving their accessibility for years and many offer aids such as plastic walkways that can be positioned to reach the shoreline or to get to the beach umbrella, raised sunbeds or beach wheelchairs for bathing in the sea.

The beach of Cervia has offered for many years an initiative called "A lifeguard for a friend", that includes a wheelchair and an assistant for bathing safely in the sea!

A new app that aims to promote Tourist Hospitality for all through the use of innovative new technologies, such as the IBeacons, technological transmitting systems which, connected to an application, allow multimedia content to be enjoyed.

In fact, the app makes it possible to interactively enjoy the naturalistic and environmental routes in the three chosen sites, through both an audio and a textual guide, thus favouring blind and/or visually impaired people.
